(2) Policies with different maturities or showing several consecutive maturities are void.

2. Policy payable on sight ARTICLE 704-

(1) It is paid on presentation of the policy issued to be paid on sight. Such a policy must be submitted for payment within one year from the day of issue. The organizer can shorten this period or set a longer period. Presentation periods may be shortened by endorsers.

(2) The issuer may stipulate that a bill payable on sight shall not be presented for payment before a certain day. In this case, the submission period starts from that date.

3. A policy to be paid after a certain period of sight ARTICLE 705-

(1) The maturity of a policy to be paid after a certain period of sighting, is due to the date written in the acceptance annotation. or by the date of the protest.

(2) If the date is not shown in the acknowledgment of acceptance and the protest is not withdrawn, the policy shall be deemed to have been accepted on the last day of the period stipulated for submission to the acceptance.

II - Calculation of the periods 1.

Generally, ARTICLE 706- (1) The maturity of a policy drawn up to be paid one or a few months after the issuance day or sight becomes due on the corresponding day of the month in which the payment is to be made. If there is no corresponding day, the maturity will be on the last day of that month.

(2) If a bill is issued to be paid one and a half months, or several months, or half a month after the day of issue or sighting, the full months are counted first.

(3) If the beginning, middle or end of a month is shown as the maturity date, the first, fifteenth and last days of the month are understood from these.

(4) The expressions "eight days" or "fifteen days" are not understood to be one or two weeks, but actually a period of eight or fifteen days.

(5) The phrase "half a month" means a period of fifteen days.

2. Conflict of calendars

ARTICLE 707- (1) Calendar difference between the place of issuance of a policy payable on a certain day and the place of payment found, the maturity shall be deemed to have been determined according to the calendar of the place of payment.

(2) If a policy issued between two places with different calendars is to be paid after a certain period of time, the maturity is calculated by converting the issue day to the calendar day at the place of payment.

(3) The provisions of the first and second paragraphs are also applied in the calculation of the submission periods of the policies.

(4) If it is understood from a record in the policy or the content of the policy that the purpose is different, the provisions of this article are not applicable.

(3) Without prejudice to the following provisions, the provisions of the Turkish Civil Code regarding pledged receivables and other rights are also applied here; The insurer cannot claim that he does not know the mortgage registered in the ship registry. However, if the insurer or the insured has notified the creditor that the loss has occurred and a period of two weeks has passed since the notification, the insurer is also relieved of its liability against the creditor by paying the indemnity to the insured. This can be avoided if the notification is extremely difficult to do. In this case, the period starts to run from the date the compensation is due.

Until the deadline expires, the creditor may object to the payment against the insurer.

bb) Payments to be made by the insurer

ARTICLE 1023- (1) If the insurer has made a payment to be counted towards the indemnity cost of the owner for the purpose of restoring the ship to its previous condition or giving it to the ship's creditors, and the achievement of these purposes is guaranteed, the payment shall also be valid against the mortgaged creditor.

(2) If the ship is restored to its previous condition or new add-on parts are put in place, the liability of the insurer to mortgage creditors ceases. In the event that the debts of the owner, which form the basis of a ship's creditor right, are paid, the payment to be made by the insurer to the owner only relieves the insurer from liability to the mortgaged creditor in proportion to the value of the elements constituting the guarantee of the ship's creditor right, immediately after the occurrence of the risk. cc) Notification of the ship mortgage to the insurer

aaa) Notification obligation

ARTICLE 1024- (1) If the mortgagee has notified the mortgagee to the insurer, if the insurance premium is not paid on time and therefore a payment period is determined for the policyholder, the insurer must notify the creditor without delay. The same provision is valid for the termination of the insurance contract at the end of the period due to non-payment of the insurance premium.

(2) In the event that the insurance contract expires prematurely due to notice of termination, withdrawal or any other reason, the insurer must notify the mortgagee that the insurance contract has expired or, if not, the expiration date. The reasons requiring the expiry of the insurance contract about the mortgaged creditor before the expiry date are valid only two weeks after this notification or the date the mortgagee learns about them in any way.

(3) In case the insurance contract is terminated due to non-payment of the insurance premium on time or terminated due to the bankruptcy of the insurer, the provisions of the second paragraph shall not apply.

(4) If the insurer makes an agreement with the policyholder that reduces the insurance cost or narrows the scope of the danger for which the insurer is responsible, the provision of the first sentence of the second paragraph is applied by analogy.

(5) If the insurance contract is invalid due to the fact that the insured has been formed with the intention of obtaining an unjust surplus in assets due to excess or double insurance, the insurer cannot claim invalidity against the mortgaged creditor who has notified the ship's mortgage. However, two weeks after the insurer notifies the mortgagee of the invalidity or the creditor learns about it in any way, the insurance relationship will also end against the mortgagee.

(3) From the moment when the goods are received by the carrier, from the shipper or a person acting on his behalf or on his behalf, or from the authorities or third parties that are required to deliver the goods for carriage pursuant to the laws and regulations applied at the port of shipment; a) The main delivery to the consignee by the carrier, or b) In cases where the consignee refrains from receiving the goods, the provisions of the contract or law or at the port of discharge the moment when the consignee is made available at his disposal in accordance with the commercial custom applied, or c) To the authorities that are obliged to deliver the goods to them in accordance with the laws and regulations in force at the port of discharge, or the moment it is delivered to third parties, shall be deemed to be in the possession of the carrier.

(4) If the goods are not delivered within the time period when delivery of the goods can be reasonably requested from a prudent carrier according to the circumstances of the event, if there is no clearly agreed time or a clearly agreed time at the port of discharge specified in the freight contract, it is assumed that there is a delay in delivery.

(5) The person who can claim compensation based on the loss of the goods may consider the goods not delivered within sixty consecutive days following the expiry of the delivery period pursuant to the fourth paragraph as lost.

II- Cases of avoidance of liability 1. Cause that cannot be attributed to the carrier

ARTICLE 1179- (1) The carrier shall not be liable for any damage arising from reasons not arising from the intent or negligence of the carrier or its employees. The burden of proving that the intention or negligence of the carrier or his men did not cause this damage rests with the carrier.

(2) The term "carrier's men" includes the crew of the ship used in the carriage, the persons employed by or authorized to represent the carriage in the carriage company, and other persons used in the performance of the freight contract even if they are not employed in the carriage company. The provisions regarding the actual carrier are reserved.

2. Technical defect and fire

ARTICLE 1180- (1) In case the damage is the result of an action or fire related to the ship's shipping or other technical management, the carrier is solely responsible for his own fault. Measures taken for the benefit of the cargo are not considered to be included in the technical management of the ship.

(2) In case of doubt, it is assumed that the damage is not the result of technical management.

3. Salvage at sea

ARTICLE 1181- (1) Except for general average, the carrier shall not be liable for any damages resulting from saving life and property at sea or attempting to rescue. If the attempt is aimed solely at salvaging goods, it must also establish a reasonable course of action.

(2) If it is proven that an event for which the carrier is responsible for the emergence of the reasons in the first paragraph, the carrier cannot escape responsibility.

(3) If the damage is likely to result from one of the reasons listed in the first paragraph, according to the requirements of the situation, assumed to occur; however, it can be proven otherwise.

IV- Combination of causes

ARTICLE 1183- (1) In case the fault of the carrier or its employees causes loss, damage or delay in delivery for another reason, the carrier is liable only for the part of the loss, damage or delay in delivery that can be attributed to the specified fault. For such a partial liability, the part of these circumstances that cannot be attributed to the said fault must be proved by the carrier.

V- Review and notification 1.

Review

ARTICLE 1184- (1) Sent; Before receiving the goods, the carrier, the master or the consignee may have the goods examined by the court or other competent authorities, or by authorized experts for this matter, in order to determine the condition, size, number or weight of the goods.

Whenever possible, the other party is also present at the inspection.

(2) Examination expenses belong to the applicant. If a loss or damage is determined for which the carrier has to pay compensation after submitting the application for inspection, the inspection expenses shall be borne by the carrier.

2. Notification

ARTICLE 1185- (1) Loss or damage must be notified in writing to the carrier at the latest during the delivery of the goods to the consignee. If the loss or damage is not evident externally, it is sufficient to send the notification within three consecutive days from the date of delivery of the goods to the consignee. In the notice, it is necessary to indicate in general the reason why the loss or damage consists.

(2) Inspection of the goods, with the participation of the parties, by the court or the competent authority or officially appointed for this matter. If it is done by experts, there is no need for notification.

(3) In case of real or potential loss or damage, the examination of the goods carried and sent

They are obliged to provide all kinds of facilities suitable for each other in order to determine the number of parcels and parcels.

(4) If the loss or damage of the goods is neither reported nor detected, it is deemed that the carrier has delivered the goods as written in the shipping bill and if it is determined that a loss or damage has occurred in the goods, this loss is due to a reason for which the carrier is not responsible. So much so that these presumptions can be disproved.

(5) The delay in the delivery of the goods must be notified in writing to the carrier within sixty days to be calculated continuously from the date of delivery by the consignee. Delay damages that are not notified on time

No compensation is paid for.

(6) If the goods have been delivered by the actual carrier, any notification made to it pursuant to this article shall be deemed to have been made to the carrier and any notification to the carrier shall be deemed to have been made to the actual carrier. A notification made to a person who is the carrier or acting on behalf and on behalf of the actual carrier, including the master and the responsible ship's officer, is deemed to have been made to the carrier or the actual carrier.

VI- Right to limit liability 1. Limits of liability

ARTICLE 1186- (1) Carrier

The Special Drawing Right is converted into Turkish Lira according to the value determined by the Central Bank of the Republic of Turkey on the actual payment day or on another date agreed by the parties.

(2) The sum of the compensation to be paid by the carrier is calculated according to the value of the goods at the place and date when they are or are to be unloaded from the ship in accordance with the freight contract. The value of the goods is determined according to the stock market price or, if there is no such price, the current market price, or in the absence of both, the ordinary value of the goods of the same quality and quality.

(3) If the goods are packed in a container, pallet or similar transport device, each parcel or unit written on the sea transport document as the content of the said transport shall be considered as a separate parcel or unit. Otherwise, such a transport device is counted as a single parcel or unit. If the transport equipment itself is lost or damaged, the transport equipment shall be considered a separate parcel, unless it is owned or supplied by the carrier.

(4) If the shipper's notification in accordance with the first paragraph is written on the shipping bill, these records constitute a presumption, but this presumption is not binding for the carrier; The third paragraph of article 1239 does not apply to the records in question.

(5) If the shipper has deliberately misrepresented the type or value of the goods, the carrier shall not be liable for the loss or damage suffered by the goods or related to the goods in any case.

(6) The responsibility of the carrier arising from exceeding the transportation period is two and a half times the freight to be paid for the delayed goods. limited to; provided that this amount cannot be more than the total freight to be paid according to the freight contract.

(7) In case the first and sixth paragraphs are applied together, the total liability of the carrier is for the complete loss of the goods. shall not exceed the amount to which he will be liable for compensation pursuant to the first paragraph.

(8) The parties may agree on amounts higher than the limits stipulated in the first and sixth paragraphs; so far, the limit agreed by the parties in terms of the first paragraph cannot be lower than the limit, whichever is higher than the limits stipulated in that paragraph.

2. Loss of the right to limit liability ARTICLE 1187- (1) In case it is proven that the damage or delay in delivery was caused by an act or omission committed with an intentional or reckless behavior and with the awareness of the possibility of such damage or delay, the carrier is exempt from the liability limits stipulated in Article 1186. cannot benefit.

(2) Persons of the carrier who are proven to have caused the damage or delay in delivery by an act or omission committed with an intentional or reckless behavior and with the awareness of the possibility of such a damage or delay, cannot also benefit from the liability limits set forth in Article 1186, based on the provision of the second paragraph of Article 1190.

VII- Time period for claiming compensation 1. Period of infringement ARTICLE 1188- (1) Any right to claim compensation against the carrier due to loss or damage of the goods and late delivery shall be forfeited if no legal action is taken within one year.

(2) This period starts to run from the date when the carrier delivers the goods or a part of it, or if the goods have not been delivered at all, from the date on which it should be delivered.

(3) The recourse action of the person held responsible may also be brought after the expiry of the period of limitation stipulated in the first paragraph. However, the right to file a recourse lawsuit is forfeited unless it is exercised within ninety days from the date on which the person who has this right pays the requested compensation or receives the petition for the compensation action brought against him.

(4) This period may be extended by an agreement of the parties after the cause of action arises.

2. Loss of the right to benefit from the defamation period objection ARTICLE 1189-

(1) The addressee of the compensation request will cause the injured person to miss the deadline to file a lawsuit.

If he stalls, he cannot benefit from the objection that the period of deprivation has passed.

(2) In this case, the period of filing a lawsuit starts to run from the date the injured party learns of this situation.

VIII- Non- contractual claims

ARTICLE 1190- (1) The provisions regarding the release of the carrier from liability and the limitation of liability shall apply to all lawsuits filed against the carrier, based on tortious act or any other reason, due to the loss, damage or late delivery of the goods subject to the freight contract.

(2) If such a lawsuit is brought against one of the carrier's men, he may also benefit from the right to limit liability in cases where the carrier is released from liability, provided that he proves that he has acted within the limits of his duty or authority.

(3) The sum of the compensation amounts that may be requested from the carrier and his employees cannot exceed the liability limit stipulated in Article 1186, without prejudice to the provision of Article 1187.

IX- Responsibility of the actual carrier1. In general,

ARTICLE 1191- (1) If the realization of the carriage is partially or wholly left to an actual carrier, the carrier remains responsible for the entire carriage, regardless of whether it has such a right of release under the freight contract. The carrier is also responsible for the acts and omissions of the actual carrier and his men, who act within the limits of his duty and authority, according to the provisions of this Law.

(2) All provisions of this Law pertaining to the responsibility of the carrier also apply to the liability of the actual carrier for the carriage performed by him. In case a lawsuit is filed against the actual carrier's men, the second paragraph of Article 1187 and the second and third paragraphs of Article 1190 shall apply.

(3) Special agreements, which result in the carrier assuming a debt or obligation not imposed on him by law, or waiving a recognized right, shall not be valid for the actual carrier unless its express and written consent is given; however, a special agreement made in this regard continues to bind the carrier even without the consent of the actual carrier.

(4) The responsibilities of the carrier and the actual carrier are several and several if and to the extent they are liable for the same damage.

(5) The sum of the compensation to be paid by the carrier, the actual carrier and their employees, as stipulated in this Law. cannot exceed the limits of liability.

(6) The provisions of this article do not affect the recourse relationship between the carrier and the actual carrier.

2. Irresponsibility clause

ARTICLE 1192- (1) Without prejudice to the provision of the first paragraph of Article 1191, if it is stipulated in a freight contract that a certain part of a transport that is the subject of the contract will be carried out by a person other than the carrier, It may be stipulated that the carrier will not be liable for loss, damage or delay in delivery that may occur while in the carrier's possession; to the extent that such agreements limiting or eliminating liability are invalid in cases where a lawsuit cannot be filed against the actual carrier in the competent Turkish court. The burden of proving that loss, damage and delay in delivery occurred while the goods were under the control of the actual carrier rests with the carrier.

(2) The validity of a condition that limits or eliminates liability depends on the understanding of the actual carrier's name, title and workplace address from the freight contract. If the actual carrier to carry out the carriage is not determined during the conclusion of the freight contract, the carrier shall notify the actual carrier's name, title and workplace address, as soon as it is determined, and at the latest following the delivery of the goods to the actual carrier. If this notification is not made, the responsibility of the carrier continues.

(3) Loss, damage or delay in delivery occurred while the actual carrier is in control of the goods.

4. Condition of the lost goods ARTICLE 1199-

(1) Freight is not paid for the goods lost as a result of an accident until the end of the unloading period, and if it is paid in advance, it is taken back. If the freight is determined as a lump sum, the loss of a part of the goods gives the right to demand that the freight be reduced at that rate.

(2) Freight is paid, regardless of whether they have been delivered or not, for goods that have been lost due to their nature, especially due to deterioration, spontaneous reduction and ordinary flow and leakage, and animals that die on the way.

(3) General average provisions are applied for the cost shares to be paid for the freight falling on the goods sacrificed due to the general average.

5. Freight debtor ARTICLE

1200- (1) The debtor of the freight is the shipper.

II- Right of

imprisonment 1.

Generally ARTICLE 1201- (1) The carrier has the right of imprisonment on the goods in accordance with Articles 950 to 953 of the Turkish Civil Code for all receivables arising from the freight contract. The right of imprisonment continues as long as the goods are in the possession of the carrier; Even after delivery, it is possible to use the powers arising from the right of imprisonment, provided that an application is made to the court within thirty days and the goods are still in the possession of the sender.

(2) The right of imprisonment only guarantees the claims arising from the journey on which the goods on which the right of imprisonment is used were transported.

(3) The right of imprisonment can only be exercised on the goods in the amount to be secured; however, general average and

For salvage claims, the carrier may exercise the right of lien on the whole of the goods. 2. Depositing the dispute arises about the receivables of the carrier, the carrier is obliged to deliver the goods as soon as the disputed amount is deposited to the place determined by the court.

(2) After the delivery of the goods, the carrier may withdraw the deposited amount by showing sufficient security.

III- Status of the third party consignee 1. Obligation to pay ARTICLE 1203- (1) If the goods are to be delivered to a person other than the shipper, when this person requests the delivery of the goods pursuant to the freight contract or bill of lading or another seaway bill of lading, the contract on which this claim is based or it shall be liable to pay all the receivables that it is authorized to pay in accordance with the provisions of the bill of lading or any other shipping bill, if the customs duty has been paid and other expenses have been incurred on its own account, to pay these as well, and to fulfill all the other debts incurred.

2. Use of the right of lien against the consignee ARTICLE 1204-

(1) From the moment the consignee requests the delivery of the goods, only the provisions stipulated in Article 1203 have to endure the exercise of the right of lien for creditors; The right of lien cannot be used for other receivables.

(2) In this case, in the proceedings to be carried out in accordance with Articles 1398 to 1400, the notifications and notifications to be made to the debtor are made to the sender. If the consignee is not found or refrains from receiving the goods, notifications and notifications must be made to the shipper.

(3) If the goods have been transported on the basis of only one freight contract and will be delivered to various consignors based on more than one bill of lading or another seaway bill of lading, the right of lien shall be exercised separately for the claims corresponding to each bill of lading or another maritime bill of lading.

3. Right of recourse

a) In case of delivery of the goods

ARTICLE 1205- (1) The carrier, who has delivered the goods to the consignee, cannot demand from the shipper the payment of the receivables that may be requested from the consignee pursuant to Article 1203. However, the carrier may recourse to the shipper to the extent that the shipper becomes rich unjustly to the detriment of the carrier.

b) In case of conversion of the right of imprisonment into money ARTICLE 1206- (1) If the carrier has requested the conversion of the goods on which he has the right of imprisonment into money, but has not fully received his receivable as a result of the sale, he may request it from the shipper to the extent that he cannot obtain his receivables arising from the freight contract made between him and the shipper.

c) In case the consignee does not receive the goods

ARTICLE 1207- (1) If the consignee does not exercise his right to demand the delivery of the goods, the shipper shall, in accordance with the freight contract, is obliged to pay the freight and other receivables to the carrier.

Responsibility of Shipper and Shipper

A) Liability for fault

ARTICLE 1208- (1) Unless the shipper or the shipper is caused by their own fault or the fault of their crew, the carrier or the actual carrier is not liable for the loss or damage of the ship or for any other reason. (2) Special provisions are reserved.

FIFTH SECTION

Termination of the Contract Due to Reasons Preventing the Start or Continuation of the Journey

A) Termination of the contract I- Due to the loss of the ship 1. Before the start of the voyage

ARTICLE 1209- (1) If the ship is lost due to an unexpected situation before the voyage begins, the freight contract is voided without either party being obliged to give compensation to the other. In this case, only the debts incurred up to the moment of the loss of the ship must be fulfilled.

2. After the voyage has started a)

Distance freight

ARTICLE 1210- (1) If the ship is lost due to an unexpected situation after the voyage has started; Except for the receivables that have arisen so far, the carrier must also pay the distance freight, even if the goods rescued from the lost ship and secured are brought to another port.

(2) Distance freight is calculated in an equitable manner according to the amount of the salvaged goods, the distance traveled until the time of loss of the ship, the expenses and duration of the journey, the risks incurred and the degree of difficulty.

(3) Distance freight cannot exceed the value of the salvaged goods at the time and place of security.

b) Obligations of the master

ARTICLE 1211- (1) The cancellation of the freight contract due to the loss of the ship due to an unexpected situation does not remove the obligation of the master to protect the interests of those who are related to the cargo, in accordance with Article 1112, in the absence of them. In case of an emergency, the master has to transport the goods to the port of arrival with another ship for the account of the relevant persons, or to ensure that the goods are stored in a safe place or sold at a reasonable price, without even needing to consult beforehand. The captain is also authorized to pledge the goods or sell some of them in order to meet the expenses required for the performance of these obligations and the maintenance of the goods.

(2) The master is not obliged to dispose of the goods or to deliver them to another ship for transport, unless the receivables of the carrier arising from the distance freight and the general average costs and salvage receivables that encumber the goods are paid or sufficient security is provided for them.

(3) Damages that may arise from the captain's fulfillment of his obligations in accordance with the provisions of the first paragraph, apart from the carrier, the outfitter is also responsible.

3. Loading and transferring to another ship

ARTICLE 1212- (1) If the carrier is authorized to load or transfer the goods to another ship other than the one named in the contract, in case of loss of this ship, the carriage may be carried out or completed with another suitable ship.

The carrier is obliged to inform the shipper of his choice without delay.

4. The ship becoming unseaworthy

ARTICLE 1213- (1) A ship that has become unseaworthy is deemed to have been lost with the court's determination decision.

I- Due to the loss of the goods 1.

Before the start of the journey a)

If the goods are determined individually in the contract ARTICLE 1214- (1) In the event that all of the goods determined individually in the contract are lost due to an unexpected situation, the contract between the parties shall be null and void without obligation of either party to give compensation to the other.

However, the receivables that have arisen up to that time must be fulfilled.

(2) In case of loss of a part of the goods, the shipper is authorized to cancel the contract by paying half of the agreed freight or to load other goods provided that it does not make the situation of the carrier difficult. If the shipper does not use these optional rights until the ship leaves the port, it is obligatory to pay the full freight.

(3) The shipper, who prefers to load other goods instead of the lost ones, is able to carry out this loading by bearing his expenses.

It is obligatory to complete it as soon as possible and to compensate for the damages caused. b) If the goods are determined by type or type in the contract ARTICLE 1215- (1) All of the goods that are not individually determined in the contract before delivery for loading

Even if it is lost, the contract between the parties does not expire.

(2) The right of the shipper arising from Article 1144 regarding the loading of goods other than the agreed one is reserved.

(3) The delivery of the goods, which are indicated in the contract only with their type and type, for loading makes it individually determined.

(4) The goods, which have been shown in the freight contract with their type and type, are not yet transferred to the ship before the waiting period expires.

If it is completely lost after it is loaded or received by the captain at the loading place to be loaded on the ship, the contract shall not be voided if the shipper notifies without delay that he is ready to deliver other goods instead of the lost ones and starts the delivery of these goods within the same period. Except for completing the loading of this goods as soon as possible, the shipper is obliged to take on the excess expenses of this loading and to compensate the damage suffered by the carrier if the waiting period is prolonged due to this loading.

2. After the journey has started, a) All of the goods are lost ARTICLE 1216- (1) In case of loss of all of the goods transported after the journey has started due to an unexpected situation, the freight contract is voided without the obligation of either party to give compensation to the other. Only other receivables incurred until the end of the contract are paid to the bearer. The second and third paragraphs of Article 1199 are reserved.

b) Loss of a part of the goods ARTICLE 1217-

(1) The loss of a part of the goods due to an unexpected situation after the journey has started does not invalidate the contract between the parties.

Full freight is paid to the carrier, even if the lost part of the goods has never been transported or has been removed from the ship while the voyage is in progress; to the extent that the provisions of the second and third paragraphs of Article 1199 are reserved.

B) Termination of the contract I- Condition that gives the parties

the right to terminate ARTICLE 1218- (1) Seizing the ship for embargo or state service, prohibiting trade with the country of destination, blocking the loading or destination ports, exporting all the goods to be transported in accordance with the contract from the loading port. The fact that the performance of the contract is prevented due to a public act, such as the prohibition of importation or transit to the port of destination, gives both parties the right to terminate the contract without being obliged to give any compensation.

(2) If the journey has not started yet, in order for the right of termination to be exercised, it must be understood that the situation preventing the performance of the contract will not disappear in a short time according to the current possibilities. On the other hand, if the performance of the contract is prevented after the journey has started, it is necessary to wait for one month for the obstacle to be lifted before the right of termination can be exercised. These periods, if the captain learns of the obstacle while in a port, from the day he heard about the obstacle; otherwise, it will be calculated from the day it reaches a port by ship after the day when the obstacle is notified to it.

(3) The parties are obliged to wait for a certain period of time in partial travel charter contracts and Kýrkambar contracts. may exercise their right of termination without notice.

(4) If the ship or all or both of the goods to be transported by the ship in accordance with the freight contract are no longer considered free and there is a danger of their seizure or confiscation because of war, the parties may use the right of termination without having to wait for a certain period of time.

(5) In cases where the obstacle arises before the start of the journey, the right of the shipper arising from Article 1144 to load other goods than the agreed upon goods is reserved.

I- Cases in which the parties do not have the right to terminate

1. Obstacles regarding only a part of the goods ARTICLE

1219- (1) Obstacles regarding only a part of the goods do not give the parties the right to terminate. In any case, the shipper has to remove the part of the goods that is no longer considered free due to reasons such as war, export or import ban. However, if the voyage has not started yet, the shipper may load other goods on the ship instead of these, or terminate the contract by paying half of the agreed freight, provided that the condition of the carrier is not aggravated. Full freight is paid to the carrier, even if the part of the goods that hinders the performance of the contract has never been transported or has been removed from the ship while the voyage continues.

(2) There is no right of termination in partial travel charter contracts and Kýrkambar contracts.

2. The captain's deviation from the route for a just cause

ARTICLE 1220- (1) The captain deviated from the route for saving life and property at sea or for any other justifiable reason, does not affect the rights and obligations of the parties and the carrier is not responsible for any damages that may arise due to this.

(2) The provision of Article 2 of the Turkish Civil Code is reserved.

3. Requirement of repair of the ship during the voyage ARTICLE

1221- (1) If the ship needs to be repaired during the voyage, the goods can be taken from the ship or the repair can be expected to be completed, provided that the entire freight and all other receivables of the carrier that have arisen up to that point are paid or provided. In cases where freight is agreed on time, the duration of the repair is not taken into account.

(2) The provision of the first sentence of the first paragraph of Article 1222 is reserved.

(3) In case of partial travel charter contracts and forty-barrel contracts, if the goods are unloaded during the repair,

The shipper may take back the goods provided that he pays the full freight and other receivables.

III- Effect of other reasons ARTICLE

1222- (1) The delay of the journey due to a natural event or other unexpected situation other than the ones envisaged in this Law, does not change the rights and obligations of the parties; unless the specific purpose of the contract is lost because of this delay. However, in the delays caused by the unexpected situation and which is understood to take a long time according to the current conditions, the shipper will not be able to unload the goods loaded on the ship by showing a sufficient and appropriate guarantee, provided that the risk and expense belong to him and that they are reloaded on time.

is authorized. In case the loading is not re-done, the shipper shall pay the entire freight and determine the reason for the unloading. must compensate for the damage caused.

- (2) In cases where the delay is caused by a public disposition, the freight agreed upon time does not operate.
- (3) In partial travel charter contracts and forty-barrel contracts, the shipper may only have the right to unload temporarily. other shippers can use it if they consent.

IV- Right of termination of the person who has the power to dispose of the goods

ARTICLE 1223- (1) In cases where the shipper does not have the right to dispose of the goods, the right to terminate the goods used by the person who has the power to dispose of it.

V- Exercise of the right of termination

1. Notice of termination ARTICLE 1224- (1) Notice of termination shall be made in writing, also by fax message, electronic letter or similar technical means.

2. Provisions and consequences a) If the contract is terminated before the start of the journey ARTICLE 1225- (1) If the freight contract is terminated for the reasons stipulated in this Separation before the journey starts, the parties are not obliged to pay compensation to each other, but only to fulfill their debts incurred up to that point. b) If the contract is terminated

(2) If the holder of a bill of lading requests the delivery of the goods before the ship arrives at the port of destination, the same provision applies.

(3) If the captain acts contrary to these provisions, the carrier remains liable to the legitimate bearer of the bill of lading.

(4) If the bill of lading is not written to the order, the goods are returned or delivered, even if no copy of the bill of lading is presented, if the shipper and the person whose name is written on the bill of lading consent. In so far, if all copies of the bill of lading have not been returned, the carrier may request a guarantee first for any damages that may arise due to this.

dd) Termination of the freight contract due to an unexpected situation ARTICLE 1233- (1) In case the freight contract is terminated spontaneously or as a result of annulment pursuant to Articles 1209 to 1227 due to an unexpected situation before the ship's arrival at the port of destination, the provisions of Article 1232 shall apply.

b) Representation of the bill of lading for the goods aa)

Generally ARTICLE 1234- (1) When the goods are received for carriage by the master or another representative of the carrier, the bill of lading is delivered to the person authorized to receive the goods in accordance with the bill of lading, without prejudice to the provisions of Article 1235, Turkish Civil Code It creates legal consequences written in articles 957 and 980 of the Law.

bb) Holder of more than one bill of lading

ARTICLE 1235- (1) If a bill of lading is drawn up in more than one copy, the bearer of one of the copies shall receive the results of the bill of lading delivered pursuant to article 1234 from the master in accordance with article 1230, based on another copy before he or she requests delivery. cannot claim against the person who has received the goods.

(2) If, before the captain has delivered the goods, more than one bill of lading apply to him and claim contradictory rights on the goods based on the copies of the bill of lading they hold, the first endorsement and delivery of the goods will be authorized by the joint endorser who has transferred the multiple copies of the bill of lading to various persons. The holder of the one copy is preferred over the others. For the copy of the bill of lading that is endorsed and sent to another place, the date of sending is the delivery date to the bearer of the bill of lading.

cc) Delivery of the goods in return for the return of the bill of lading ARTICLE 1236-

(1) The goods are delivered only in return for the return of the copy of the bill of lading with an annotation stating that the goods have been received. 2.

Function of proof a) Proving the legal relationship

ARTICLE 1237- (1) The bill of lading is taken as basis in the legal relations between the carrier and the bill of lading holder.

(2) Legal relations between the carrier and the shipper shall be subject to the provisions of the freight contract.

(3) If there is a reference to the travel charter contract in the bill of lading, a copy of the charter party must be submitted while the bill of lading is transferred. In this case, the provisions of the charter party can also be claimed against the bill of lading holder to the extent their qualifications allow. However, the provision of the second sentence of the first paragraph of Article 1245 is reserved.

b) Proving the bearer ARTICLE 1238- (1) The person who signs the bill of lading as the bearer or the person whose bill of lading is signed in his own name and account is deemed to be the bearer.

(2) In cases where the name, surname or trade name of the carrier and the center of operation are not shown or clearly understood in the bill of lading, the owner is deemed to be the carrier; unless, upon the express request of the bill of lading bearer, the owner has documented this by notifying the carrier's name and surname or the trade name and the business center.

(3) In the bill of lading drawn up by the master or another representative of the carrier, in cases where the name, surname or trade name of the carrier and the headquarters of the business are not indicated or are not clearly understood, the representative shall be deemed to be the carrier together with the owner held responsible pursuant to the second paragraph; unless, upon the express request of the bill of lading, the representative has documented this by notifying the carrier's name and surname or trade name and business center.

(4) In case the name, surname or trade name of the carrier and the operating center are reported incorrectly or late, the carrier, the owner or the carrier's representative are jointly liable for the damages arising from the wrong or late notification; In this case, the period of forfeiture stipulated in Article 1188 shall not start to process regarding the claims directed to the carrier until the name and surname or trade name of the carrier and the business center are reported correctly.

c) Proving the general type, signs, number of parcels or pieces, weight and quantity of the goods ARTICLE 1239-

(1) The bill of lading contains declarations about the general type, signs, number of parcels or pieces, weight or quantity of the goods, and carries out the actual delivery of these declarations. If a bill of lading has been received or a bill of lading has been drawn up, if he knows that he does not show the goods actually loaded correctly and completely, or suspects for good reason that he does, or does not have sufficient means to control these statements, explaining to the bill of lading that these statements do not comply with the truth, the reasons justifying his suspicion or that there is no adequate control opportunity, must make a reservation.

(2) If the carrier neglects to declare the externally visible state of the goods on the bill of lading, it is deemed that a declaration has been made on the bill of lading that the goods are in good condition externally.

(3) Without prejudice to the statements regarding the bill of lading based on the first paragraph, the bill of lading establishes a presumption that the carrier has received the goods as declared in the bill of lading or, if a bill of lading has been issued, that it has loaded it. The contrary of this presumption cannot be proved against the third party who has taken over the bill of lading in good faith, including the consignee, relying on the description of the goods it contains; The fourth paragraph of Article 1186 is reserved.

d) Proof of freight

ARTICLE 1240- (1) A bill of lading that does not contain a record of the freight to be paid by the consignee or the demurrage money to be realized at the loading port and paid by the consignee pursuant to subparagraph (I) of the first paragraph of Article 1229 constitutes the presumption that the consignee is not liable to pay the freight or demurrage fee. .

The contrary of this presumption cannot be proved against the third party who has taken over the bill of lading, including the consignee, which does not contain such a record of freight or demurrage money.

(2) If the freight is determined according to the size, number or weight of the goods and these are shown on the bill of lading, the freight is determined accordingly, unless otherwise stated in the bill of lading. The annotation written in accordance with the first paragraph of Article 1239 is not considered as a condition contrary to the bill of lading.

(3) If a reference is made to the contract of carriage for freight, the scope of this forwarding is the unloading period, the demurrage period and The provisions on demurrage money do not apply.

e) Guarantees given by the shipper ARTICLE

1241- (1) Article 1145 is applied for the records related to the goods placed on the bill of lading.

(2) Any undertaking or agreement that the shipper will indemnify the carrier for the damage incurred by the carrier or its representative due to the issuance of the bill of lading without adding any reservations regarding the condition and quality of the goods, which are declared by the shipper to be placed on the bill of lading, is void against all third parties who acquire it in good faith.

(3) Such a commitment or agreement is valid between the parties; unless the carrier or its representative intends to deceive third parties, including the consignee, acting by relying on the definition of the goods in the bill of lading, without making the reservation mentioned in the second paragraph. In this case, if the reservation not made on the bill of lading relates to the records submitted by the shipper to be written on the bill of lading, the carrier cannot claim compensation from the shipper pursuant to Article 1145. (4) In case of the existence of the intent to deceive as specified in the third paragraph, the carrier, who acts by relying on the records in the bill of lading, is liable to third parties, including the sent one, without benefiting from the limits of liability stipulated in Article 1186.

B) Other bills of lading ARTICLE 1242-

(1) Any bill of lading, other than the bill of lading issued by the carrier to show that he has received the goods to be transported, constitutes a presumption that the contract of carriage has been concluded and the goods have been received by the carrier as written in the promissory note; however, this presumption can be disproved.

ARTICLE 1441- (1) In case of withdrawal, if the policyholder is intentional, the insurer is entitled to premiums for the period in which he bears the risk.

hhh) Lossof the right of withdrawal ARTICLE 1442-

(1) The right of withdrawal cannot be used in the following cases: a) If the exercise of the right of withdrawal has been explicitly or implicitly waived. b) If the insurer has caused the breach leading to withdrawal. c) If the insurer has concluded the contract even though some of its questions are left unanswered.

bb) Obligation to declare the changes between the making of the offer and its acceptance ARTICLE 1443- (1) Regarding the changes between the making of the offer and its acceptance, the provisions of the article regarding the obligation to declare at the time of conclusion of the contract are applied by analogy. cc) During the contract period aaa)

In general ARTICLE 1444- (1) After the contract is concluded, the insurer may not accept the risk or risk without the consent of the insurer.

It cannot engage in actions and actions that aggravate the current situation and increase the amount of compensation.

(2) If the policyholder or someone else, with his/her permission, takes actions that increase the probability of the risk to occur or aggravate the current situation, or if one of the issues that are clearly accepted as risk aggravation occurs when the contract is made, immediately; If these transactions have been made without his knowledge, he shall notify the insurer of the situation within ten days at the latest from the date he learns about this matter. bbb) Rights of the insurer

ARTICLE 1445- (1) If the insurer learns, within the term of the contract, about the realization of the risk or the possibility of aggravation of the current situation, or the existence of events that can be considered as risk aggravation in the contract, it may terminate the contract or request premium difference within one month from this date. If the difference is not accepted within ten days, the contract is deemed to be terminated.

(2) The right of termination cannot be exercised if the situation before the changes were made.

(3) The right to request termination and premium difference not used in due time is forfeited.

(4) If the increase in the risk is caused by a matter related to the interest of the insurer, an event for which the insurer is responsible, or the fulfillment of a humanitarian duty, and changes in the health status of the insured in life insurances, the provisions of paragraphs one to three shall not apply.

(5) If the insurer's negligence is determined after the occurrence of the risk and it is determined that the declaration obligation regarding the changes has been violated, a discount is made from the compensation or the price, depending on the degree of negligence, if the violation in question is of a nature that may affect the amount of compensation or the price, or the realization of the risk. In case of intent of the policyholder, if there is a link between the change and the actual risk, the insurer may terminate the contract; In this case, no insurance indemnity or cost will be paid. If there is no link, the insurer pays the insurance claim or cost, taking into account the ratio between the premium paid and the premium payable.

(6) Even if the insurer finds out that the policyholder has deliberately violated his obligation to declare before the risk occurs, he is entitled to the premium for the insurance period in which the change occurred, even if he terminates the contract according to the first paragraph.

(7) In the event that the risk materializes in connection with the change made, within the notification period of the termination given to the insurer or within the period given for the termination to take effect, the insurance indemnity or the ratio between the premium paid and the premium to be paid shall be taken into account. dd) When the risk occurs ARTICLE 1446- (1) When the policyholder learns that the risk has occurred, he/she shall notify the situation to the insurer without delay.

(2) Failure to notify or late notification of the occurrence of the risk will not result in compensation or price to be paid.

If it has caused an increase, depending on the gravity of the fault, a reduction is made from the compensation or the price.

(3) If the insurer has already learned that the risk has actually occurred, he cannot benefit from the provision of the second paragraph.

c) Obligation to provide information and allow research

ARTICLE 1447- (1) After the occurrence of the risk, the policyholder is obliged to provide the insurer with all kinds of information and documents within a reasonable time, which are required to determine the scope of the risk or indemnity and which can be expected from the policyholder, pursuant to the contract or upon the request of the insurer. In addition, the policyholder is obliged to allow the insurer to conduct an examination in the places where the risk occurs or in other relevant places and to take the appropriate measures expected from him, depending on the nature of the information and document he receives.

(2) If the amount to be paid increases due to the violation of this obligation, a reduction is made from the compensation according to the gravity of the fault. d)

Obligation to prevent and reduce damage and to protect the insurer's recourse rights

ARTICLE 1448- (1) In cases where the risk has occurred or is likely to occur, the policyholder is responsible for preventing, reducing, preventing the increase of the loss or recourse of the insurer to third parties.

is obliged to take measures to the extent possible in order to protect their rights. The policyholder must comply with the insurer's instructions on this matter as much as possible. In the event that there are more than one insurer and they give instructions contrary to each other, the insurant takes into account the most appropriate of these instructions in terms of reducing the damage and protecting the recourse rights.

(2) If the breach of this obligation has created a situation against the insurer, a discount is made from the indemnity according to the gravity of the fault.

(3) The insurer is obliged to compensate the insured's reasonable expenses in accordance with the first paragraph, separately from the insurance indemnity or cost, even if they are useless. In cases where under-insurance is made, the provision of Article 1462 is applied by analogy.

(4) The insurer, upon the request of the insured, is obliged to pay the necessary amount as an advance in order to cover the expenses. e) Violation of

the obligations stipulated in the contract ARTICLE 1449- (1)

In case of breach of a contractual obligation that must be fulfilled against the insurer, the provisions regarding the insurer's partial or complete annulment of the contract, excluding the special regulations contained in this Law and other laws, shall be exempted from performance in case of violation. In the absence of fault, it will not produce any results. (2) If the violation is based on fault, the right to terminate unused within one month from the date on which the situation is learned shall be forfeited; unless the Law stipulated a different period.

(3) The insurer cannot terminate the contract in cases where the breach does not affect the realization of the risk and the scope of the action that the insurer must fulfill.

B) Application area of the provisions of the law

ARTICLE 1450- (1) Contrary provisions in their own laws regarding contracts made with social security institutions the provisions of this Law shall not apply.

C) Provisions to be applied on insurance contracts ARTICLE 1451-

(1) In cases where there is no provision in this Law, the provisions of the Turkish Code of Obligations shall apply to the insurance contract.

D) Protective provisions

ARTICLE 1452- (1) With the provisions of Articles 1404 and 1408, the second sentence of the first paragraph of Article 1429
Inconsistent contracts are void. (2)

Contract terms contrary to the provisions of Articles 1418 and 1420 and the second paragraph of Article 1430 are invalid. (3) Articles 1405, 1409, 1413 to 1417, 1419, 1421, 1422 to 1426, second to fifth paragraphs of article 1427, article 1428, first and third paragraphs of article 1430, first, second and fourth paragraphs of article 1431 and the provisions of Articles 1433 to 1449 cannot be changed against the policyholder, the insured and the beneficiary; is changed, the provisions of this Law shall apply.

PART TWO

Special Provisions Regarding Types of Insurance

CHAPTER ONE

Loss Insurance

A) Property

insurances I - Benefits and scope 1.

Generally ARTICLE 1453- (1) Those who have an interest in the non-realization of the risk, guarantee these benefits with property insurance. they can get under.

(2) Loss of income arising from the realization of the risk and damages arising from the defect of the insured property, on the contrary. If there is no contract, it is not covered by insurance. In the context of property, the part of the income that exceeds the reasonable limit cannot be insured.

(3) In group insurances in the nature of property insurance; changes in the collection of goods due to the entry or exit of goods
The contract is valid with all its provisions.

(4) Property insurance for the group of goods also covers the individual parts of the group.

2. Insurance in favor of someone else ARTICLE 1454- (1) The policyholder may insure the interests of a third party, by stating his/her name or not. Rights arising from the insurance contract belong to the insured. Unless otherwise agreed, the insured may demand payment of insurance compensation from the insurer and sue him.

(2) In cases where the name of the third party is mentioned, in case of hesitation, the insurant may act as the representative of the third party. not acting on his own behalf but in favor of the third party.

(3) In the contract, it may also be left open for whose benefit the insurance was made. If it is understood that such an insurance, which is made "in favor of the person who will be", was made in favor of a third party, the provision of the second paragraph is applied.

3. Insurance of common interests

ARTICLE 1455- (1) If a person who has an interest in only a part of a property or a right related to that property has insured more than his/ her own part, the part of the insurance regarding this surplus shall be deemed to have been made in favor of those who have the same interest as the insured.

4. Limitations on interest a) Limited

real right

ARTICLE 1456- (1) In case the owner's interest on a restricted property with limited real right is insured, Unless the law provides otherwise, the right of the limited real right holder continues on the insurance indemnity.

(2) If the insurer is notified that he has limited real rights on the goods, the insurer cannot pay the insurance indemnity to the insured without the consent of the real rights holders. In cases where the right in rem becomes public or the insurer knows about it, there is no need for notification. Indemnity may be paid to the insured for the purpose of repairing or restoring the property subject to the insured benefit and provided that security is provided.

(3) The insurer, who violated the provisions of the second paragraph, limited real rights holders may subsequently approve the payment. If they do, they are relieved of their responsibility.

(4) The insurer shall also notify the owners of real rights, who have notified him of his right in rem and are known to him, that the insured has defaulted on his premium payment debt and that he has given notice to the insured due to the premium difference request.

(5) When the contract is terminated or withdrawn by the policyholder or the insurer; If the insurer has made a notice of termination or withdrawal, it shall notify the limited real rights holders within fifteen days from the date of such notice or, in other cases, from the expiry of the contract. The insurance contract shall be valid for fifteen days from the expiry of the contract for the right holders in rem. If the real right owner who learns the situation does not notify the insurer that he will continue the contract within these fifteen days, the insurance contract becomes invalid for the real right owner as well. If the right holder wishes to continue the contract, the insurer cannot refuse this request unless there is a justifiable reason.

(6) Upon request, the insurer informs the person who declares that he is the owner of limited real rights, about the insurance protection and the amount of the insurance amount.

(7) Article 1416 shall also apply to the limited real right holder who notifies the insurer of his right ownership.

(8) The provisions of this article do not apply to limited real rights established in favor of the policyholder.

b) Seizure

ARTICLE 1457- (1) If the insured property is seized, the insurer is relieved of its debt by paying the insurance compensation to the enforcement office, provided that it is informed in time. In the confiscation of a property, the bailiff asks the debtor whether the goods in question are insured, and if so, by which insurer; After learning that the seized property is insured, it warns the insurer that it will be freed from the debt only by paying the insurance indemnity to the enforcement office until further notice.

II - Retroactive insurance

ARTICLE 1458- (1) Insurance can be made in such a way that the insurance protection is provided from a date before the conclusion of the contract. However, if it is known by the insurer, the policyholder and the insured, at the time of conclusion of the contract, that the risk has occurred or that the possibility of its realization has disappeared, the contract is invalid. In cases where the risk is realized or the possibility of its occurrence is not known by the insured or the insured but the insurer is not aware of it, the insurer is entitled to the entire premium to be paid, although not bound by the contract.

III - Compensation

principle 1. Generally

ARTICLE 1459- (1) The insurer compensates the loss suffered by the insured.

2. Insurance value

ARTICLE 1460- (1) Insurance value is the full value of the insured interest.

3. Insurance cost

ARTICLE 1461- (1) The liability of the insurer is limited to the insurance cost. Insurance cost, where the risk is incurred

Even if the current insured benefit exceeds the value of the benefit, the insurer will not pay more than the loss suffered.

(2) The provisions of the first paragraph shall not apply to the new value insurances that provide the same compensation.

4. Provisions a)

Under-insurance

ARTICLE 1462- (1) If the insurance amount is less than the insurance value, in case a part of the insured benefit is damaged, the insurer pays indemnity according to the ratio of the insurance cost to the insurance value, unless there is a contrary contract.

b) Excess insurance

ARTICLE 1463- (1) If the insurance amount is above the value of the insured interest, the excess is invalid. This

For this reason, the insurance cost and the portion of the insurance premium that meets it are deducted and the excess premium collected is returned.

(2) The insurance contract signed by the insurant in bad faith with the aim of obtaining financial benefit is invalid. Agreement

The insurer, who does not know about the invalidity, is entitled to premium until the end of the insurance period when he learned about the situation.

c) Taxpayer insurance

ARTICLE 1464- (1) If the parties have determined the insurance value as a certain currency in the contract, this money becomes the basis for the insurance value.

(2) If the charge is substantially exorbitant, the insurer may request a deductible. If the expected profit is taxed, the insurer may request its deduction if the taxpayer exceeds the profit that was deemed possible to be obtained according to commercial estimates at the time of the contract. d) Multiple insurances

aa) Rule

ARTICLE 1465- (1) In case the same benefit is insured against the same risks, for the same period, by more than one insurer, on the same or different dates, the policyholder is not paid more than the insurance amount.

(2) In more than one insurance, the policyholder notifies each of the insurers that the risk has occurred and other insurances made for the same benefit. In case of violation of this provision, the provision of Article 1446 shall apply.

bb) Co-insurance ARTICLE

1466- (1) If an interest is insured by more than one insurer at the same time, for the same periods and against the same risks, all insurance contracts made are valid only up to the value of the insured interest. In this case, each of the insurers shall be liable in proportion to the sum insured, according to the sum of the insurance costs.

(2) If the insurers are jointly and severally liable according to the contracts, the insured cannot demand more money than the loss suffered, and each insurer is liable only up to the amount he is obliged to pay according to his own contract. In this case, the recourse right of the paying insurer against other insurers is in proportion to the amounts that the insurers have to pay to the insured according to the provisions of the contract. cc) Double insurance ARTICLE 1467- (1) A benefit whose value is fully insured cannot be insured for the same periods of time against the same risks by the same or different persons afterwards; if insured, the insurance is only valid under the following conditions: a) If the next and previous insurers approve; In this case, the insurance contracts are deemed to have been concluded at the same time, and when the risk occurs, the insurance amount is paid by the insurers at the rate indicated in Article 1466. b) If the insured has transferred its rights arising from the previous insurance to the second insurer or waived those rights; in this case, the transfer or waiver must be written on the second insurance policy; If it is not written, the second insurance contract will be deemed invalid.

c) Responsibility of the next insurer only for the compensation not paid by the previous insurer is stipulated; in this case, the previously made insurance must be written on the second insurance policy; If it is not written, the second insurance contract will be deemed invalid. dd) Partial insurance ARTICLE 1468- (1) If the value of the insured interest could not be fully covered by the previous contract, this benefit can be insured one or more times up to its remaining value. In this case, the insurers who subsequently insure that benefit will be liable for the balance in the order of the date of the contract. Contracts made on the same day are deemed to have been concluded at the same time. e) The insurer's ability to examine the insured benefit ARTICLE 1469- (1) The insurer may examine the value of the insured benefit during the insurance period.

IV - Change of the owner of the insured interest ARTICLE 1470-

(1) In case the owner of the insured interest changes, if there is no contrary contract, the insurance relationship ends up.

V - Not making any changes to the damaged property and the place where the damage occurred

ARTICLE 1471- (1) The insurer cannot make any changes in the location and property that is the subject of the damage, which would make it difficult or prevent the determination of the cause of damage or the amount of damage, before the damage is determined; unless this change is made with the approval of the insurer or for the purpose of reducing the loss.

(2) In the culpable breach of this obligation, provided that there is a causal relationship between the breach and the damage, according to the gravity of the fault. compensation is reduced.

VI - Succession

ARTICLE 1472- (1) When the insurer pays the insurance indemnity, he legally replaces the insured. If the insured has the right to file a lawsuit against those responsible for the damage incurred, this right passes to the insurer up to the amount he indemnifies.

If a lawsuit or proceeding has been initiated against those responsible, the insurer may continue the lawsuit or proceeding from where it left off, by proving the payment made to the insured under the rule of succession, without the need for the approval of the court or the other party.

(2) If the insured acts in a way that violates the rights transferred to the insurer according to the first paragraph, he will be liable to the insurer. If the insurer has partially compensated for the damage, the insured retains his right of recourse against those responsible for the remaining part.

B) Liability insurances I - Generalprovisions 1. Subject and

CHAPTER TWO

Life Insurances

A) Life insurance

I - Definition

ARTICLE 1487- (1) With life insurance, the insurer pays a certain premium to the policyholder or to his/her determined undertakes to pay the insurance amount to the person in case of death or survival of the insured.

(2) If the person whose life is insured dies before the first premium is paid, the insurance contract is invalid.

II - Tontin

ARTICLE 1488- (1) Tontins can be established in accordance with the principle of dividing the assets created by the contributions given by more than one person between the survivors on a certain date and the beneficiaries if the deceased has predetermined it.

III - Withdrawal from the contract

ARTICLE 1489- (1) The insurant may withdraw from the contract within fifteen days after the insurer notifies him that he can exercise his right of withdrawal. It is proved by the insurer that the information was given. If no notification is made, the right of withdrawal expires one month after the first premium is paid.

(2) The provision of Article 1430 is reserved.

IV - Person whose life will be insured

ARTICLE 1490- (1) The policyholder may insure his or someone else's life against the possibility of death or survival.

(2) In order to insure the life of another, the beneficiary must have an interest in the continuation of that person's life. In addition, in insurances against the possibility of death, written consent of the insured or his legal representative, if any, is required if the insurance cost exceeds the usual funeral expenses. If the insured is over the age of fifteen, his/her permission is also obtained, apart from the legal representative. A contract made without permission is void if permission is not given.

(3) In cases where the legal representative is appointed as the beneficiary or he is the insured, the legal representative's consent does not have the authority to represent the insured.

(4) In case the benefit condition disappears after the conclusion of the contract, the contract becomes invalid from that moment on. income; however, the surrender value is paid to the insured.

V - Insurance value

ARTICLE 1491- (1) A person's life can be insured by one or more insurers on various costs.

(2) In cases where the amount to be paid is more than the beneficiary's financial benefit, the excess portion is in favor of the insured. deemed done.

(3) The provision of Article 1472 does not apply to life insurances. Pursuant to the life insurance contract, it is invalid for the insured and the heirs of the insured and the heirs of the persons who are the subject of the risk, who collect the agreed insurance amount from the insurance company, to the insurance company the indemnity they have against the third party who caused the risk to occur.

VI - Medical examination

ARTICLE 1492- (1) Medical examination of the person to be insured between the policyholder and the insurer

Even if it is agreed, the insurer cannot force the insured person to have this examination.

VII - Beneficiary

1. Appointment and replacement

ARTICLE 1493- (1) Without prejudice to the second and third paragraphs of Article 1490, the policyholder, real or may enter into an insurance contract in favor of a legal person.

(2) The policyholder notifies the beneficiary he has appointed to the insurer.

(3) In case the beneficiary has not been notified to the insurer, the insurer is relieved of its debt with the payment made in good faith.

(4) If the policyholder has written on the insurance policy that he has renounced his right to change, but has delivered the insurance policy to the beneficiary, he cannot change that person. In case of hesitation, it is deemed that the policyholder reserves the right to change the beneficiary. Even in cases where the policyholder expressly gives up the right to change the beneficiary and the insurance policy is given to the beneficiary, the beneficiary can be changed if the cases of exclusion from the inheritance or recourse from the grant have occurred or the reason for the appointment of that person as the beneficiary among the relevant parties has disappeared.

(5) Beneficiary appointment and beneficiary changes are not subject to the consent of the insurer.

(6) In cases where the beneficiary cannot be changed, if the rights to leave and borrow are used by the insurant, the beneficiary is entitled not only to the amount to be paid, but also to the amount to be paid as a result of the bankruptcy of the insurer before the realization of the risk, unless otherwise agreed.

(7) The right to demand and collect performance from the insurer belongs to the beneficiary, unless otherwise agreed.

2. Interpretation rule regarding the assignment of beneficiaries ARTICLE 1494- (1) If more than one person has been appointed as beneficiary without specifying their shares in insurances made against the risk of death, all of them have equal rights on the insurance amount. Share not taken by one of the right holders, added to the share of others. The refusal of the inheritance or the abandonment of the inheritance will not affect the right of the beneficiary. (2) If the beneficiary is not specified in the insurances made against the risk of death, it is considered that the contract is made in favor of the heirs of the insured, and in the insurances made against the possibility of survival, in favor of the insured.

VIII - Right in favor of the insured

ARTICLE 1495- (1) In case the beneficiary cannot win the right to claim against the insurer, this right passes to the insured, and in case of his death, to his heirs.

IX - Group insurances

ARTICLE 1496- (1) Insurance can be made with a single contract in favor of a group consisting of at least ten people, who have the opportunity to determine who they are according to certain criteria, by the policyholder. During the continuation of the contract, everyone in the group benefits from the insurance until the end of the group insurance contract. If the group falls below ten people after the conclusion of the contract, it does not affect the validity of the contract.

(2) A document summarizing the policy content is given to each person in the group.

(3) In group insurances, the right to appoint the beneficiary belongs to the person in the group, unless otherwise agreed.

(4) In case of leaving the group within the contract period, the coverage provided by the group insurance may be continued individually by the policyholder, the insured or the beneficiary, unless otherwise agreed. Continuation of the contract individually by the insured or the beneficiary is possible only in the capacity of the insured. These persons are responsible for the premium debts of the past days, together with the previous insurer.

(5) Separation, borrowing, downloading, notification obligation and other related issues in group insurances are regulated by a regulation to be issued by the Ministry to which the Undersecretariat of Treasury is affiliated.

X - Declarations

1. Incorrect declaration of age ARTICLE 1497- (1) If the premium is determined to be low as a result of incorrect reporting of the age of the insured at the time of conclusion of the contract, the insurance amount is paid according to the ratio of the premium to be received according to the real age to the determined premium. If the risk is realized and the insurance cost is paid before the discount, the insurer may request the return of the excess amount paid, together with the interest.

(2) In case of paying premiums more than the real age, the insurance amount is increased according to the premium paid. If the insurance cost is paid before the increase, the missing part is completed by the insurer.

(3) The insurer may withdraw from the contract only if the actual age is outside the limits determined according to the technical principles at the time of the contract, due to incorrect age declaration.

2. Violation of the obligation of declaration at the time of conclusion of the contract

ARTICLE 1498- (1) If five years have passed since the conclusion of the contract, including the renewals, the insurer cannot withdraw from the contract because the policyholder has violated the obligation of declaration during the conclusion of the contract, but may only ask for premium difference; unless the duty of disclosure has been deliberately violated.

If the policyholder does not agree to pay the premium difference, the insurer pays the insurance amount by taking into account the ratio between the premium paid and the premium to be paid when the risk occurs. However, if the risk increase is beyond the limits determined according to the technical principles of the insurer due to the breach of the declaration obligation, the insurer may withdraw from the contract. In renewed contracts, this period starts from the date of the first contract.

3. Violation of the obligation to declare during the continuation of the contract
